Prayer for Priestly Vocations

Lord Jesus Christ, Living Bread come down from heaven, in Your Name we ask the Father to bless the Diocese of Baker with vocations to the priesthood. By the prompting of the Holy Spirit call forth from among us men who are able to sympathize with our weakness and deal gently with the wayward, men who will give us confidence to draw near to the font of Mercy and find grace in the time of need. Send us priests to bring comfort to the afflicted, pardon to the sinner, and peace to the dying; priests to hand You over to us in the Breaking of the Bread. High Priest, of the New and Eternal Covenant, we place our trust in You. To You be glory and praise forever. Amen

FR. Joseph's Corner...

Just say... Thank You, Lord.

A newly arrived soul in Heaven was met by St. Peter. The saint toured the soul around Heaven. Both of them walked side by side inside a large workroom filled with angels. St. Peter stopped in front of the first section and said, "This is the Receiving Section. Here, all the petitions to God said in prayer are received." The soul looked at the section, and it was terribly busy with so many angels sorting out petitions written on voluminous paper sheets from all the people of the world. They walked again until they reached the 2nd section, and St. Peter told the soul, "This is the Packaging and Delivery Section. Here, the graces and blessings to the people asked for are packed and delivered to the persons who asked for them down on earth." The soul saw how busy it was. There were so many angels working in that room, since so many blessings were being packed and delivered to Earth. Finally at the farthest corner of the room, the soul stopped at the last section. To the surprise of the soul, only one angel stayed there idly, doing nothing. "This is the Acknowledging Section," St. Peter told the soul. "How does one acknowledge God's blessing?" "Simple," St. Peter answered. "Just say "Thank you, Lord."

Thank you Lord, for giving me the chance to share this message with others and also, for giving me so many wonderful people to share this with. If you have food in the refrigerator, clothes on your back, a roof overhead and a place to sleep... you are richer than 75% of this world. If you have money in the bank, in your wallet, and spare change in a dish someplace... you are among the top 8% of the worlds wealthy. If you woke up this morning with more health than illness... you are more blessed that the million who will not survive this week. If you have never experienced the danger of battle, the loneliness of imprisonment, the agony of torture, or the pangs of starvation... you are ahead of 500 million people in the world. If you can attend a church meeting without fear of harassment, arrest, torture, or death... you are more blessed than 3 billion people in the world. If your parents are still alive and still married... you are very rare. If you hold up your head with a smile on your face and are truly thankful... you are blessed because the majority can, but most do not. If you can hold someone's hand, hug them or even touch them on the shoulder... you are blessed because you can offer healing touch. If you can read this message, you just received a double blessing in that... someone was thinking of you, and furthermore, you are more blessed than over 2 billion people in the world that cannot read at all. Have a good day, count your blessings, and pass this along to remind everyone else how blessed we all are.

Thank you Lord!!

Prayerful Wishes, Fr. Joseph

Here are, with no particular order, some of life's precious instructions, which we often take for granted. Reflect on them and I hope you can put to work some of them, and hopefully, in the long run, all of them:

Watch a sunrise, at least once a year – Strive for excellence, not perfection - Sing in the shower – Treat everyone you meet like you want to be treated – Learn three clean jokes – Never waste an opportunity to tell someone that you love them – Complement three people every day – Keep it simple – Think big thoughts, but relish small pleasures – Become the most positive and enthusiastic person you ever know – Leave everything a little better than you found it – say ‘Thank you’ a lot – Avoid negative people – Remember other people’s birthdays – Always carry jumper cables in your car or truck – Look people in the eye - Be the first to say ‘Hello’ – Return all the things you borrow – Make new friends but keep the old ones – Keep secrets – Always accept an outstretched hand – Stop blaming others, but take full responsibility of your actions – Be there when people need you – Always visit a friend who is in the hospital – Don’t expect life to be always fair – Never underestimate the power of love – Make sure you listen to Christmas carols during December – Say ‘Please’ often – Be always ready to forgive and forget – Hug your best friend for no apparent reason – Always keep your promises – Count your blessings – Smile often – Rekindle old friendships – Read the Bible every day – Be always kind to people – Say ‘Sorry’ if you hurt someone – Respect the elderly – Don’t be afraid to say ‘I made a mistake.’

O T XXXI Sunday (Nov 5) Homily on Matthew 23:1-12

The central theme of today's readings is a strong invitation and challenge to render humble, selfless, diligent, committed and loving service to others in the community without expecting honor or rewards. Today's Gospel is a warning against hypocrisy and status-seeking, given to the early Church and to our own Church communities.

In the first reading, the prophet Malachi condemns the irresponsible, proud and lazy priests of his day. In the second reading, St. Paul presents himself as an ideal example of servant leadership in a serving Christian community.

In today's Gospel, Jesus offers a word of judgment against contemporary religious leaders who are more concerned about self-promotion than service to others. Christ-like leadership calls for integrity and honesty from all those in authority, whether priests, parents, teachers or politicians. There should be in leaders no double standards. Rather, there should grow a deep sense of equality with, and mutual respect between, leaders and those they rule. Each should seek to serve the other. Service, not status, is the mark of this new community, and true humility is the only position its members should seek.

We need to become servant leaders in a serving community: The Church is a servant community in which the hungry are to be filled; the ignorant are to be taught; the homeless to receive shelter; the sick to be cared for; the distressed, consoled; and the oppressed, set free. In this way, men may more fully realize their human potential and more readily enjoy life with God. Hence, leaders should have a spirit of humble service in thought, word and deed. "The measure of a true Christian is not how many servants he has, but how many men he serves."

We need to live the Faith we profess. Religious people are all too often like the Pharisees, laying heavy loads on other people's shoulders without lifting a finger to budge them. Instead of judging the poor, we should be serving them both by helping to meet their needs and by working for and with them, practicing economic justice. Instead of criticizing those of other races, we should value them for their gifts, treat them as our brothers and sisters, and promote racial justice by our attitudes and in our speech. Instead of ignoring the homeless, we should be serving them through efforts to supply them with adequate housing. We need to live the Faith we profess. Our faith tells us that we are all brothers and sisters, children of the same Heavenly Father. The way to live this Faith is to help build a human community of love and justice, one deed at a time; the first step in doing this is to acknowledge our failings and ask God for help to do better.

We need to learn the art of self-criticism: It is easy to read today's Gospel and start pointing fingers at others. Of course, I can point a criticizing finger at all the officials I know, political, religious or otherwise. But let me ask the question: am I so different from them? It is important that I see how this applies in my own life. The Gospel is addressed to ME. How touchy am I about the way people treat me, especially if I have some title or responsibility, even if it is just that of a parent or teacher? Respect cannot be demanded -- it must be earned.

We need to accept the responsibilities which go with our titles. Are today's readings trying to tell us that there should be no differences among us and we should drop all titles and honors? Actually, all such titles and polite forms are meant to remind each of us of our specific responsibilities in society. Each of us has a name, an identity and a personality. Today's readings remind us that whatever we are and have is not simply a birthright, but a gift given to us by God, a loving Father. In addition, the fruitful use of everything we are and have owes very much to the generosity and care of our loving neighbors for us. St. Francis of Assisi ceaselessly reminded his friars that if they could boast about anything as their own, it was their sins. Hence, let us use everything we are and have in a way that brings glory to God and His family.
